

Joseph Barclay, CEO and President, Inflight Warning Systems.

Joseph Barclay has over 25 years of experience in the aviation industry. He joined Inflight Warning Systems as Director of Programs in 2006 and became President, CEO and a Director in 2008. Mr. Barclay also has served as CEO of subsidiary InstinctMRO, LLC since its inception in June 2013. From 1991 through 2006, Mr. Barclay worked for Delta Air Lines in several positions, most recently as MRO Program Manager and Technical Analyst.

Previously, Mr. Barclay served in the United States Air Force from 1987 to 1991. Mr. Barclay studied electrical engineering technology at Southern Polytechnic University in Marietta, GA, and also attended Embry Riddle Aeronautical University, DeKalb College and the University of Maryland. He maintains strong ties to the aviation and aeronautical community, serving as a member of the International Advisory Committee of the Flight Safety Foundation and is the current Chairman of the Maintenance Advisory Committee. He is also a Member of the Royal Aeronautical Society and the International Society of Air Safety Investigators.