

Dr. Nicklas Dahlstrom, Human Factors Manager, Emirates Airline

Nicklas Dahlstrom has been with the Emirates Airline since 2007 and in this position he has overseen CRM training in the airline and integration of Human Factors within the organisation.

Nicklas was previously a researcher and instructor at Lund University School of Aviation in Sweden, working on projects related to safety and Human Factors in aviation as well as in areas such as maritime and rail transportation, nuclear industry and health care.

Nicklas has conducted research on subjects such as mental workload, training and simulation. He has written research articles and book chapters and delivered invited presentations, lectures and training in twenty different countries.